

House Gives One Man-Vote Plan For Supervisors

LANSING (AP)—The House gave preliminary approval Thursday to a one-man-one-vote approach to districting for county boards of supervisors.

The basic concept is yet to be decided upon by the Michigan Supreme Court, which has Kent and Muskegon county cases under consideration.

House members, however, spent most of their three-hour debate on such questions as who should do the actual apportioning, what role the courts should play, and how to protect themselves from potential political competitors.

Some lawmakers had expected the High Court to hand down its decision at its monthly conference Tuesday. The decision now seems likely to come April 12.

Meanwhile, said Speaker Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit, "we should have a bill ready to go whenever the court does make its decision."

The current bill still must get final House approval and be passed by the Senate.

County boards are now set up along a variety of lines, although the Constitution requires each organized township be represented by one board member.

The bill would require each supervisor be elected from a single-member district and each county be reapportioned by a commission made up of the county clerk, the county treasurer and the prosecuting attorney.

After the bill became law and within two months of each federal census, the county would have to be split up into a minimum of five and a maximum of 35 districts "as nearly of equal population as is practicable."

In the event of failure or dispute, the Court of Appeals would be called upon to pick the plan that most closely met the requirements of state law.

House members amended the bill to reduce proposed terms of office from four to two years.

Asks Probe Of Grand Juror

DETROIT (AP)—Investigation of one-man grand juror Edward S. Piggins is being sought by a justice of the peace whose ouster Piggins has recommended.

Justice George R. Perry of Nankin Township asked the investigation Thursday by Wayne County Prosecutor Samuel Olsen, claiming misconduct in office on Piggins' part. Olsen did not disclose what action he might take, if any.

Perry claims Piggins was quoted in a Feb. 2 story in the weekly Wayne Eagle as saying that if Perry is guilty of offenses listed by Piggins in his removal petition then Perry "should go to prison."

That statement, which Perry said he was told was an accurate quote by Eagle reporter Earl Palmer, violates Piggins' oath of secrecy, Perry claims.

Perry cited the 1948 Michigan statute governing conduct of one-man grand jurors. It provides any grand juror who "shall disclose, publish, or cause to be published, any comment, opinion or conclusion related thereto, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

A misdemeanor is punishable by up to a year in prison and a fine of up to $1,000, and conviction could bar Piggins from further service as a Wayne County Circuit judge.

Piggins said he had not seen the story, but that "the statement attributed to me is erroneous."

"I did not," he added, "say that to anyone."

Reporter Palmer said "I wrote what I wrote in good faith" and he hoped to find his notes. Piggins was quoted as making the statement at a news conference before he spoke to a Junior Achievement banquet in January.

At one time Perry sought a warrant against Piggins, charging violation of the one-man grand jury statute, but said he changed his mind and wrote Olsen a two and a half page letter asking an investigation by his office.

Congress Will Pass $6 Billion Tax Bill Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson was assured of his $6-billion tax program today as House and Senate leaders moved to complete action quickly on a compromise version meeting administration specifications.

Passage was assured. Senate and House conferees Thursday ditched most of the changes the Senate had made in the measure that would have reduced its net yield to the Treasury by $1 billion or more.

However, a limited program to blanket some 300,000 old persons into Social Security was included in the final version.

Major provisions reinstated recently cut excise taxes on cars and phone calls, and speed up collection of personal and corporate income taxes.

A revised withholding plan by which the amounts taken out of paychecks will more closely match tax bills remains in the bill with only minor modifications from the administration recommendation. It will become effective in May, bringing generally lower withholding for low-income taxpayers and somewhat higher withholding for those in middle and upper brackets.

Both branches of Congress planned final votes by Tuesday, meeting the March 15 deadline requested by the President. The Senate may act Monday, Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., of the Senate Finance Committee said.

The $6-billion tax boost — $1.2 billion in this fiscal year and $4.8 billion in the year starting July 1 — is designed to help finance the Viet Nam war and also dampen any inflationary tendencies.

The Senate had voted to reduce sharply the tax rollback by limiting it to long-distance calls. But the conferees agreed to drop this amendment. The telephone excise tax, accordingly, will revert to 10 percent from 3 percent.

The other major revenue-affecting amendment was a Senate rider that would have given Social Security benefits to 1.8 million persons over 70 who had not contributed to the system. This would have cost the Treasury $790 million.

The conference instead devised a plan for persons 72 and older. The number of beneficiaries was further reduced by eliminating those with federal, state or local government or railroad retirement pensions or receiving welfare payments.

The benefit also was reduced from $44 a month and $66 for a couple to $35 for an individual and $52.50 for man and wife. The changes reduced the first-year cost of the program to $90 million.

Approve Pipeline

LANSING (AP)—Construction of a 27-mile natural gas transmission pipeline in St. Clair County by the Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. has been approved by the State Public Service Commission. The $1.24 million pipeline will transmit gas from fields in Columbus, Lynn and Mussey townships to the utility's Belle River Mills field station and from there to Detroit.

Harnischfeger Launches Expansion In Escanaba

Lease-Sale Of City-Financed Factory Agreed

The City of Escanaba today announced terms of an agreement to finance the housing of a large expansion of Harnischfeger Corp. manufacturing operations in Escanaba. The corporation will acquire the facilities from the city under a 25-year lease-purchase agreement.

The city will invest $950,000 of funds which it now has invested in government securities in an addition to the Danforth Road truck crane plant of Harnischfeger. The money is from the city's gas utility fund. The city sold its propane gas generating and distribution system to Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. of Detroit last June for $725,000 and, with reserves and created a total fund of $1,008,000.

This was invested in government securities which are returning about 4 per cent interest.

Fringe Benefits

By investing in the Harnischfeger plant addition housing the city will increase its income from investment of the gas fund to 4.75 per cent for the first 10 years of the agreement and net an estimated 5.5 per cent average for the full term. The return on the investment will consist of 12 monthly lease-purchase checks of $4,885, totaling $58,620 a year, plus city taxes on the plant expansion.

Fringe benefits, not now realized from the investment in government securities, said city councilmen, who unanimously authorized the investment, will be county and school taxes on the plant addition, an added industrial payroll of $1,250,000 a year for the community (on top of Harnischfeger's present payroll of $6 million in Escanaba) and creation of 200 new jobs in the Escanaba P&H truck crane and welder plants within the next two years. The company will be expanding its local production volume by one-quarter.

The agreement expands a 19-year business relationship between the City of Escanaba and Harnischfeger Corp., which has rented the city-owned Stephenson Ave. factory of Harnischfeger since 1947 and the 3rd Ave. N. plant of the firm's Welder Division for 7 years.

Under the agreement, the company is to make rental payments to the city and a combination of interest (at 3.75 per cent) on the investment and increased personal and real property taxes on the expanded facilities will be equivalent of not less than 4.75 per cent for the first 10 years and a higher average for the full term.

The city will own the new

Gemini Flight Mission To Be Action Packed

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—"This is an extremely full flight plan, and therefore many things might not be done."

Flight Director Christopher Kraft was discussing next week's action-packed Gemini 8 mission during which astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, a civilian, and David R. Scott, an Air Force major, are to launch their space ship to another satellite and Scott is to stroll in space for 2 hours, 40 minutes.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported in detail Thursday the plans for the three-day trip in which the astronauts will be busier than any previous U.S. spacemen.

Highlights will be the chase of an Agena satellite over a 105,000-mile course; four separate linkups with the Agena, and the space walk during which Scott will float on a 100-foot tether practicing maneuvers and seeing how well he can perform in weightlessness as a photographer, space mechanic, star gazer and collector of scientific data.

In an interview, Kraft said: "The flight plan is essentially a flight request, and the pilots will do what they can in the time allotted. It's doubtful they can do all the things laid on. It will be a flight of real time decisions."

Kraft said the astronauts were given many tasks because "in Gemini we hope to gain as much space operational experience as possible on all flights."

The doubleheader launching is scheduled to start at 10 a.m. EST Tuesday when an Atlas-Agena rocket boosts the Agena upper stage into orbit. The Titan 2 is to follow at 11:41 a.m., shooting Gemini 8 into space to start the dramatic chase.

If the Agena achieves the desired orbit, Armstrong and Scott will fly almost precisely the same orbit-shifting course that Gemini 6 did in catching up to Gemini 7 in December.

Gemini 8 command pilot Armstrong will fly formation with the target at a distance of about 50 feet for 45 minutes before inserting the nose of the Gemini into an Agena docking collar and firmly locking the two vehicles together.

The astronauts will remain moored to the Agena through a night's sleep. Scott will open his hatch 20 hours, 25 minutes into the flight and will step outside on a 25-foot tether.

After conducting experiments, he will enter an open equipment bay at the base of Gemini 8 and don a life-support back pack and connect an extra 75 feet of tether. During this time Armstrong will disconnect from the Agena and back about 100 feet away. Scott will leave the equipment section and practice maneuvers with his longer tether and a gas-jet gun.

After Scott returns to the cabin, the astronauts will try three more dockings and undockings with the Agena, using varying methods of approach.

'Copters Rescue Camp Survivors Under Red Guns

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U. S. Marine helicopters flew under Communist guns today to rescue 50 more survivors of the Fallen Ashau Special Forces camp on the Laotian frontier.

Five of those rescued in the daring flights were crewmen of two Marine choppers shot down Thursday during a dramatic evacuation of 69 wounded in the final hours of the 39-hour battle before a North Vietnamese regiment overwhelmed the garrison.

The rescued Marine airmen included the commander of the helicopter squadron. He was last seen Thursday running for a bunker with a machine gun in his arms. The others were Vietnamese and Montagnard troops, including three women dependents who lived at the isolated outpost.

Despite their victory at Ashau, 360 miles north of Saigon, the Communists avoided any new action, though Allied forces tried to force them into combat. Terrorism, however, continued in the Saigon area.

A Viet Cong hurled a grenade at a U.S. military jeep en route from Saigon to Tan Son Nhut airport tonight, injuring one soldier seriously and three others slightly. Four Vietnamese passersby also were hurt by the blast.

At the noon hour Thursday, terrorists exploded two grenades in a bar-restaurant at Binh Duong, 20 miles north of Saigon. Seven persons were killed and 54 wounded, presumably all Vietnamese. The terrorists escaped.

Although U.S. forces saw little action on the ground, American planes delivered counterblows at the Reds in North and South Viet Nam despite heavy overcast.

The bad weather that hampered air strikes to save the beleaguered Ashau outpost also hindered the raids on the Communist North Thursday. With the help of radar, however, Navy and Air Force pilots cut through the thick clouds and flew 11 missions.

The 7th Fleet planes pounded roads, ferry landings and warehouses in the Vinh, Dong Hoi and Thanh Hoa areas, all south of Hanoi, while Air Force fighter-bombers hammered a road near Dien Bien Phu, west of Hanoi near the Laotian border, spokesmen said.

Guam-based B52s continued their daily raids by hitting a new target in western Pleiku Province, three miles from the Cambodian border. U.S. officials described the highland area, 200 miles north of Saigon, as an old assembly point for Communist forces filtering down the Ho Chi Minh Trail into central coastal plains.

The helicopter flights into the Ashau area were a repeat of the heroism shown by Marine pilots who flew out four Americans and 65 Montagnard tribesmen before the camp's fall Thursday night. Fifteen to 20 Americans and about 360 mountain tribesmen and Vietnamese soldiers were stationed at the camp when it was attacked early Wednesday by a Communist force thought to be eight times as large.

Some women and children of the mountain troops were reported killed in the bitter fighting.

The Marine helicopters picked up the second batch of survivors while searching the jungles near the camp. The size of the group surprised the pilots who did not think so many persons could have survived the onslaught or evaded capture.

Communist gunners greeted the Marine helicopters with a blaze of fire Thursday. Maj. Clifford E. Reese, 38, of Greensboro, N.C., a Marine pilot, said the enemy fire "was right over us, right under us, in front of us and behind us."

Another pilot said his 10 minutes on the ground "seemed like a lifetime."

The Communists knocked down two of 11 rescue choppers. One was shot down just after it had taken off with survivors. They and the crewmen scrambled to another helicopter.

Construction will begin as soon as details can be worked out.

President Harnischfeger said "The company decided to center its expansion of power crane and shovel manufacture in Escanaba for two major reasons:

"1. The excellent climate created by city leaders, and

"2. Assurances from all concerned that if we gave the green light to our Escanaba management they could count on the support of everyone in helping to increase and improve production, thereby insuring Escanaba's future as the Truck Crane Capital of the World."

Managers Enthused

Harnischfeger also said that "the success of the total program hinges on a continued healthy economy and on the willingness to accept change by every Escanaba employee at all levels. It is safe to say that everything we are doing now will, when the program is completed, be done better. And if we don't improve our quality and lower our costs—you can bet your last dollar that our competitors will."

Multi-Million Project Will Make 200 Jobs

A vast plant expansion, plant modernization and manufacturing improvement program that will add 200 jobs and an estimated $1,250,000 to the Harnischfeger Corp.'s annual payroll in Escanaba was announced today by Company President Henry Harnischfeger.

Slated for completion within a year, the multi-million dollar program is aimed at increasing Harnischfeger's Escanaba production capabilities by 25 per cent through a two-pronged combination of new facilities and improved ways of doing things. According to Henry Harnischfeger, "Success in all phases will enable us to increase our participation in the markets we serve. This in turn will provide more work and increase the security of all concerned."

Highlights of the program include:

1. Construction of a new office building and an additional 81,400 square feet of manufacturing space at the old Danforth Road truck crane plant. Estimated to cost $350,000, the buildings will be financed by the City of Escanaba and will be leased to Harnischfeger.

2. An equal or greater investment by the company in new machine tools and equipment.

3. Consolidation of truck crane manufacture at the Danforth Road site. Present truck crane manufacturing space adjacent to the Stephenson Ave. welder plant will be used for a planned increase in welder unit production.

4. Continued intensified efforts at all levels by all employees to find better ways of doing things that will bring costs into line with those of Harnischfeger's major competitors.

5. Increased production of all models presently manufactured here, plus the additional manufacture of the larger cranes for the P&H hydraulic truck crane line. The latter will be shipped to facilities at Pampa, Texas where the upper assemblies for hydraulic products are made.

Construction will begin as soon as details can be worked out.

President Harnischfeger said "The company decided to center its expansion of power crane and shovel manufacture in Escanaba for two major reasons:

"1. The excellent climate created by city leaders, and the State of Michigan Association of Civil Defense Directors, member of the Air Force Association and the Air Force Sergeants Association.

"2. Assurances from all concerned that if we gave the green light to our Escanaba management they could count on the support of everyone in helping to increase and improve production, thereby insuring Escanaba's future as the Truck Crane Capital of the World."

He has attended Mississippi State College, Office of Civil Defense Staff College, Dale Carnegie Sales Course, Ben Franklin Sales Course and Personnel Management.

Mrs. Johnson is the former Ida B. Cone of Wilson, N. C. They have five children, a daughter Margaret whose husband is with the U. S. Coast Guard in Detroit; a son, Mason Jr., with the U. S. Air Force security service in Turkey; and three sons at home attending the public schools.

The deadline for candidates to file nominating petitions is Tuesday, March 15. With the announcement by Mason Johnson there appeared to be no other candidates rumored to enter the field.

Candidates must file petitions bearing the names of at least 50 Escanaba qualified electors to win nomination and a place on the ballot.

City Clerk Don Guindon said the deadline for applications for absent voter ballots for the April 4 election is Saturday, April 2 at 2 p. m. Ballots are expected to be ready by about March 21.

Audubon Club Plans Program On Wildflowers

The local Audubon Club is inviting persons interested in natural history to view a color slide program on "Wildflowers of Delta County" to be presented at Bay de Noc Community College at 8 p. m. Tuesday, March 15.

The meeting will be in Room 208, second floor of the East wing of the College building.

Mr. and Mrs. Clint Dunathan of Escanaba will give the 45-minute program they have developed as a hobby in their identification, as amateur botanists, of flowering plants of Delta County. The program has been presented to a number of groups, including an Upper Peninsula meeting of the Michigan Botanical Club.

Among the color slides will be pictures of several rare native orchids. The Dunathans have collected orchid seeds for botanists at Cranbrook Institute of Science, where studies in the propagation of the plants are underway.

Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

Symphony Plays Concert Here Saturday Night

The Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, one of the nation's most acclaimed musical organizations and now in its 36th season, will play in Escanaba Saturday night under sponsorship of the Delta Community Concert Association.

The Association reminds local ticket holders they must be in their seats at the William Oliver Auditorium not later than 8 p. m. After that hour subscribers from other areas of the U. P. will be seated and seating cannot be guaranteed for late-comers.

Directed by Izler Solomon, the Indianapolis Symphony has been praised by critics throughout the country.

At New York's Carnegie Hall the orchestra won ovations for itself and its conductor and the program was described as "one of the most attractive in the season's festival."

Schools Given Federal Funds

Eleven of the Upper Peninsula's 15 counties are among Michigan school districts sharing in nearly $18 million in federal education funds since the start of school last fall, the Michigan Department of Education announced in Lansing today.

Michigan is reported as one of the first states in the nation to pass the half-way mark in distribution of its federal funds.

Congress appropriated nearly $1 billion to improve educational services for disadvantaged children throughout the nation under a formula based on the number of families with annual incomes of less than $2,000.

Michigan's share of these funds amounted to $34.7 million for the current school year. In addition, it will receive $7.7 million for expanded library services, textbooks, and other instructional materials and for development of supplementary educational centers.

The allocations so far made to counties and districts in this area:

Delta — Total $35,848. Gladstone basic reading skills improvement $13,921; Rock district, remedial reading, library expansion and fine arts, $21,927.

Schoolcraft — Total $39,195. Manistiquette Co-op, basic improvement.

Menominee — $71,118. Carney-Nadeau, home management for girls $1,500; Menominee, remedial reading, $45,155; Powers-Spalding, teacher aides $1,040; Stephenson, reading improvement and language $23,423.

Delta-Menominee counties — Bark River-Harris, elementary remedial reading, $8,840.

Mackinac — $19,164. Garfield Township Co-op remedial reading $5,243; Mackinac Island remedial reading $3,775; St. Ignace remedial reading $5,663; St. Ignace Township, reading, $4,483.

Urge Sign-Up For Medicare

The physicians of Delta County encourage persons who qualify for Medicare to apply for the Medical Insurance portion before March 31.

This coverage can be obtained in addition to the Hospital coverage for $3 per month. The $3 can be automatically deducted from Social Security or Railway Pension if the applicant desires. If a person does not sign up before that time, the next sign-up date is October, 1967.

The Medical coverage differs from the Hospital coverage in that it pays physicians and surgeons fees, in and out of the hospital, home nursing services, and many other miscellaneous services such as laboratory tests, x-rays, splints, and other medical equipment needed in treating diseases. The coverage pays 80 per cent of the cost of the above items after the one time per year $50 deductible.

Other health insurance coverage can be had at a reduced rate if a person has Medicare coverage. These new policies will cover what Medicare does not.

Add 7 Judges

John Beaver, 18, Waives Exam On Cabin B&E Count

John A. Beaver, 18, of Rte. 1, Ensign, who was arrested by State Police and charged with the breaking and entering of the Edwin Mattson cabin in Nahma Township was bound over to Circuit Court for trial after waiving preliminary examination Thursday before Justice A. J. Mortier in Gladstone.

Beaver was lodged in the Delta County jail after failing to post $500 bond.

State Police said Beaver first entered the Mattson cabin on the night of Feb. 27. Troopers said he went back again several days later.

The Mattson cottage was one of 10 located in the Nahma Township-Stonington Peninsula area which had been reported broken into. Beaver has admitted entering two more of those 10, troopers said.

Delta County Sheriff's officers and State Police are continuing their investigation into the breaks.

College Future Is Explored At Board Meeting

The regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of Bay de Noc Community College was held Thursday night, with Joseph Heirman, chairman of the Board, and President Richard Rinehart reporting on a new problem in receiving state matching money for capital outlay.

The State Department of Education changed the procedures and rules for distributing state aid last week in a recommendation to the State Administrative Board. The proposed revision in rules would reduce the payment to Bay de Noc Community College by $14,000.

The Board members discussed this in detail and concluded that it was poor practice for the State of Michigan to change its procedures two thirds of the way through the year, after the money had been spent. They instructed President Rinehart to transmit this concern to the State before the final adoption of these rules.

Long range plans for the Community College were then discussed and the Board agreed that planning must be done to answer the following questions:

●—What is the extent and method for implementation of the goals of the Community College in terms of programs to be offered, services to be rendered, service area and role in relation to other institutions?

●—What type and general site location should be the goal of the college? The answer should show the general site for 1980 and beyond, the extent of needs for 1975 and the steps to be taken by 1970.

●—What types of buildings and what combinations of facilities should the college develop in each time period?

●—What is the proposed plan for financing physical facilities development? This answer must also involve the method for financing operation for the college at each phase.

●—What is the extent of obligation to accept students from outside Delta County?

President Rinehart reported that the faculty will be preparing reports for such planning.

Each faculty member will be writing individual statements on instructional philosophy and recommended teaching techniques. The faculty members are asked to recommend academic and curricular policies to the administration and should develop recommendations for future instructional methods as they would have implications for the plan, such as the use of special equipment and techniques.

Divisional chairmen were then confirmed by the Board. In a previous meeting the faculty had approved three divisional chairmen whose function would be the evaluation and leadership within broad areas of instruction.

The divisional chairmen are: Miss Leona Dougherty, in the Humanities; Lyle Plowman in Social Sciences; and William Williams in the Mathematics-Science areas.

President Rinehart then reported on faculty contracts and progress and the implementation of the new salary system.

Job Training, Mental Health Needs Reviewed

Problems of vocational education and the progress of community health programs in the Upper Peninsula were discussed at a joint meeting of the Human Resources Committee of UPAC and its newly-formed subcommittee on Vocational Education and Occupational Training in Marquette Thursday.

Attending were committee members, members of some of the area vocational study committees, two consultants from the Vocational Education Division of the Michigan Department of Education, Robert Pangman and Philip Bailey, Howard Lamb of the Michigan Department of Mental Health, Ron Calery of Catholic Social Services, Sault Ste. Marie, and Matthew Howie of the War Memorial Hospital at the Sault.

Prefacing the committee, Richard Rinehart, president of Bay de Noc Community College, presented the report of the Delta - Menominee - Schoolcraft area vocational study which Bay de Noc had just completed.

Need Financing

Joseph Tuma, acting director of UPAC, pointed out that generally speaking neither the legislature nor the general public was fully aware of the need for vocational education. A total cost of $10,000 to put a person through college is generally accepted as not unreasonable, and the state is prepared to put large sums into higher education.

However, it has not been ready to match these outlays in its appropriations for vocational education. Vocational education is very expensive and at present the combined federal-state reimbursement of local costs averages only about 25 per cent, a figure that is far too low.

Robert Pangman of the Vocational Division of the Michigan Department of Education, explained the thinking behind the area vocational studies. In the U.P. one has been completed, and five, in progress, will probably be completed within a year.

List Alternatives

Philip Bailey, also of the Vocational Education Division, re-emphasized the need to instill in the public a truer concept of vocational education. It is not a second-best alternative to a college preparatory course — designed for second-best students — but a well-rounded curriculum of general education, plus specialized training to prepare students to enter the world of work soon after leaving high school, he said.

Bailey then indicated that there were a number of alternatives for instituting new area vocational programs such as: Cooperative arrangements among schools with an interchange of students for special courses that were not taught in all the schools; contract or tuition arrangements made with some central school, the creation of special area vocational schools, including residential schools.

In the discussion that followed the point was made again, and strongly, that vocational education should not be conceived as a narrow job training. Its aim was not simply to produce someone with some skills — such as a machinist — but to produce an educated person with specialized occupational skills.

Statistics were presented to show that half of the high schools in the U.P. have no vocational programs of any kind, not even inadequate ones.

Three solutions to the financial problem were indicated: "Greater local effort, school district reorganization to provide broader tax bases, and a higher proportion of reimbursement from state and federal funds (up to 50 per cent instead of present average of 25 per cent)."

Mental Health

By way of immediate action, the committee decided to refer to a later meeting of the subcommittee on Vocational Education, the problem of drafting a resolution to be presented to the state legislature indicating the needs for increased state matching funds. The committee drafted a resolution at the meeting urging the legislature to include in legislation now being considered provisions to finance transportation for inter-district cooperative programs as well as for transportation within districts.

In the afternoon the committee devoted its attention to community mental health problems. Howard Lamb, U.P. regional coordinator for the Department of Mental Health described the state plan for community mental health services.

Ron Calery of the Catholic Social Service in Sault Ste. Marie spoke of the needs of his area and suggested that an organization such as UPAC should offer technical assistance to local groups interested in planning community health facilities. In the Sault, he pointed out, as elsewhere in the U.P. there are child guidance services, but no services for adults.

Regional Problem

Matthew Howie of the War Memorial Hospital in the Sault said he felt that the next logical step for many communities would be to add psychiatric wards to their general hospitals. He pointed out that six of the U.P. hospitals are among the top ten in Michigan in admissions for psychiatric reasons. The U.P., he said, has mental health problems similar to those of other areas and some that are accentuated by the heavy outmigration of youth from the peninsula.

The committee agreed that mental health was a problem of regional magnitude and that the UPAC organization should investigate the ways in which it can be of assistance to U.P. communities. For this purpose, it decided that a new committee on community health should be formed on community health planning (both mental and physical).

The committee also heard a report by Robert Vanderberghe on the establishment of a speech and hearing clinic. Vanderberghe indicated that progress was being made to establish such a center at Northern Michigan University.

The next meeting of the committee will be May 12 at Iron Mountain.

Downstate Road Project Cost To Be $15.7 Million

LANSING (AP) — The State Highway Department has announced low bidders on 28 projects costing a total of more than $15.7 million.

Largest of the projects, all in lower Michigan, is seven miles of grading and paving on I 94 from Eight Mile to 14 Mile in Wayne and Macomb counties, bid at $5,863,000 by L. A. Davidson and Eisenhour Construction Co. of Lansing.

Bids will be taken March 23 in Escanaba on nine Upper Peninsula projects.

Water, Water Everywhere Nor Any Drop In Chatham

By DAVE ANDREWS AND MRS. PHYLLIS BUCHOLTZ

CHATHAM — "Water, water everywhere nor any drop to drink."

The Ancient Mariner's lament carries special significance for the villagers of Chatham. In the middle of Michigan's "Water Wonderland" they know what it's like to be without a drink.

For three years, the wells in this small, Alger County community have been going sour. First it was just one, then another. Now there are only a few good wells left in the entire village.

Tests by the State Health Dept. assert the bacteria count is too high for safe human consumption. Cause may be lack of natural filtration compounded by septic tank seepage. Nobody's quite sure.

The water just isn't any good anymore, that's all.

One of two restaurants in town — The Eat Shop operated by Marion and Frank Hill — is closed because of it. Families go to Munising 30 miles away to do their shopping because of it.

And every night, children bicker over who's going to go out to the family source to get drinking water for the next day.

"I always bring a jug along when I go somewhere," says Mrs. Esther Kallio.

Altogether, according to George Leppamaki, village president, about 52 families — nearly the entire population of the village — are affected.

"Some of the wells are so bad they don't use them at all. Others they can use to get water for washing dishes and clothes, but only after boiling. The odor at Henry Norman's home during Christmas got so bad he couldn't even turn on the tap."

Leppamaki, a poultryman on Michigan State University's experimental farm, was born and raised in Chatham. His father helped build the community. He likes it there and now he's the village president.

"We'd like to stay here, to expand if possible," he said, "but we've got to have water."

"People anticipating to build won't until they get assurances of water," he continued. "We hope to get a laundromat in town, but we can't without water."

John Erickson, sanitary engineer for the State Health Dept. in Escanaba, said that new wells would have to be drilled to a depth of 250 to 300 feet to reach good water. Well casings would have to be cemented to prevent seepage of the contaminated ground water above. Cost for a single-family well would run close to $1,000.

"Some of our people could afford it," Leppamaki said, "but what about those on fixed incomes, those living on Social Security. What would they do?"

In 1964, a year after the water problem first appeared, the village incorporated itself under Michigan's village home rule act in hopes of increasing its chances of qualifying for state or federal aid to build a community water system.

With a tax base of only $150,000 to draw on, the estimated $107,000 cost to the community for a well and distribution system is prohibitive. To pay such a debt, taxes and water bills would have to be so high nobody would stay to live.

Leppamaki said the only possible source of money for the system is from either the state or federal governments. For two years that has been a blank, too.

"President Johnson promises millions to help Germany with its water problems and we can't even get a dime," one irate resident said.

Leppamaki said the village has applied to the APW, the ARA, the EDA and a couple of other federal alphabet agencies without success. The Village Council is currently waiting word from the Farmer's Home Administration in Washington on another application for a grant and loan.

Plans for the community system, including a vertical tank to provide pressure for fire hydrants, etc., have already been drawn. If the needed financial help comes through, construction will start this summer.

The water is available, Leppamaki points out. A deep well on the MSU Experimental Farm provides excellent water.

The problem is to get it out for the community, too.

The performance is sponsored here by the Players de Noc of Escanaba, and is under auspices of the Cap and Gown Series of the MSU Continuing Education Service.

The members of the Performing Arts Company are graduate and undergraduate students who have come to Michigan State because of the opportunities offered by its University Theatre program. The student artists have a wide range of theatrical training and experience.

During its first season (1963-64), the Company completed successful tours of both "Media" and "Rhinceros," and was enthusiastically received.

Supervision of the Company is in the hands of faculty members of the Department of Speech, under the leadership of Frank C. Rutledge, director of theatre production.

Major Banks Boost Rates

NEW YORK (AP) — Many major banks across the nation are raising the minimum interest rate on short-term business loans from 5 to 5½ per cent, an Associated Press survey shows.

It is the second rise in the prime interest rate in three months. Last Dec. 6 the rate increased from 4½ to 5 per cent.

Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York was the first to increase its rate Thursday. Word quickly spread through financial circles and within hours banks in widely scattered parts of the country announced similar increases.

"Because of the continuing heavy demand for credit, we are raising our minimum rate to 5½ per cent, effective immediately," said D.C. Sutherland of the Bank of America in San Francisco. The bank is the world's largest.

The stock market, which had been rallying strongly, declined sharply and prices closed slightly lower Thursday.

Although the interest rate boost is for business firms, its effect will be felt widely. It will mean a higher cost of doing business, which will be passed on to the customer.

Ultimately it could mean higher rates on consumer loans for such things as automobiles and appliances.

Other cities where banks have announced the rate include: Atlanta, Indianapolis, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Richmond and Norfolk, Va., and Los Angeles.

Bankers in many other major cities said they were considering such action.

In Washington, there was no comment on the prime-rate increase from the White House, the Treasury Department or the Federal Reserve Board. The Johnson administration sharply attacked the increase last December.

Some observers believe that White House silence this time could mean that Johnson is ready to accept the rate increase as a means of slowing down the booming American economy.

Not all banks are planning to act immediately on the rate increase.

Earning A Living

There's an old saying that the more things change the more they are the same. We're reminded of the quip by a current trend in schooling.

Two generations ago the apprenticeship system was a familiar method of learning a job skill. We have apprenticeship still, of course, and the preceptor method of learning from one skilled in the craft still is a basic concept of much teaching, but apprenticeship has been supplanted by schooling in many situations.

This led to drastic change. Where grandfather learned to be a carpenter by being apprenticed to a carpenter for a period of years and working with him and learning in the process, grandson goes to school and takes a course in "manual arts." It is very unlikely that good carpenters will come out of "manual arts" schooling. The courses aren't taught by carpenters, the students don't intend to be carpenters, and the result is not an acquired skill but a rather ineffectual exposure to tools.

This "manual arts" sort of schooling developed in a period when public schooling was making its first feeble efforts with vocational education in a general curriculum. And, although the technologies have become highly specialized, it still is with us.

It is getting a hard look from educators at this time. They're saying that it doesn't fit the needs of young people in modern society and that the schools should change and offer vocational education that really prepares young people for specific jobs, so that they can go right to work with their useable skill when they leave high school.

This seems so sensible that there may be some wonder why there's any delay in doing it or why we have delayed so long. But the boards of education who will have to authorize this change from polite little superficial exposure to job skills haven't rushed to adopt it. It will cost more than "manual arts" to school students in real job skills.

That's an immediate problem that slows change. But critics of the present system say that money is not the chief obstacle, but rather a lack of belief that students who are not going to college should be as much the concern of the school system as the college-bound.

Each should be prepared for adult life to the limit of the ability of the school. This puts a special obligation on the high school where the student who isn't going on to college is concerned. He should be equipped educationally for adulthood, and that means self-sustaining. He should have a job skill. It not only gives him the very necessary bread and butter of life, but also the sustaining feeling of self-sufficiency, of usefulness, of indispensability, of pride in accomplishment.

There's been a long and often heated debate among educators about vocational education. The academicians seemed to prevail for a long time with their pitch that what all students need is a general education and that on top of that they can build a job competency. This thought is not out of the window, but it has been amended. From having trended toward a belief that college should be the goal for almost everyone we have come to believe that it should be the goal for persons who can benefit from it and who want to go.

It became apparent that if we're to have a culture so full of professors that nobody could make an automobile or fix a toaster we're going to be in trouble. Increasingly we read the headline: "Everybody Shouldn't Go To College." It isn't anti-intellectualism, but a revision of thinking based on American schooling experience.

Now educators are saying that there should be vocational education that is specialized and expert; that turns out students who want careers in the job skills taught; that uses technically competent persons as instructors; that prepares students for jobs that actually exist and that seek workers.

And educators are saying that the vocational education classes shouldn't be a catchall for the kids who aren't going to college or who can hardly stay in high school; that many job skills that can be taught require a higher IQ than some college work.

Schooling has come full circle and decided that it doesn't hurt a student to learn something useful.

The Doctor Says: Can Curb Epilepsy

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt

Q — Are you born with epilepsy or can it be caused by an injury?

A — Both. The cause of idiopathic epilepsy is unknown but in many victims hereditary appears to play a part. Symptomatic epilepsy may be caused by an injury to the brain, a brain tumor or an infection involving the brain.

Q — Is any medical research being centered on finding a cure for epilepsy? What are the chances that a cure will be found?

A — The American Epilepsy Society (330 Ninth Ave., Salt Lake City 3, Utah). The Epilepsy Foundation (1729 F St., N. W., Washington 6, D. C.), and The National Epilepsy League (208 N. Wells St., Chicago, Ill. 60606) are voluntary health organizations that promote general education regarding this disease and support various research projects.

Although no permanent cure has been found there are several drugs which, taken in the proper dosage for the individual epileptic, will effectively control the seizures in a large portion of cases. You must remember, however, that epilepsy is not a single disease but a group of diseases with many causes and no one treatment can be applied to all.

Q — Can convulsive seizures with amnesia or syncope with amnesia be caused by an emotional upset when brain wave tests fail to show any evidence of epilepsy and treatment with an anticonvulsant (Dilantin) has not been effective?

A — Convulsions or fainting, with or without a loss of memory for the period covered by the attack, may be caused by hysteria which is essentially a

Thailand Ties To U.S. It Happened On This Date

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Thailand's leaders believe—and some are laying heavy stress upon the point in private—that their already troubled country would fall an easy prey to Red subversion if South Viet Nam should come under Hanoi's domination.

Their assumption is, of course that the estimated 20,000 North Vietnamese regulars in Laos would quickly gobble up the remainder of that partitioned land and open the whole of Thailand's Mekong River border to massive infiltration.

Thai officials assume also that, on the heels of a failure in Viet Nam, U. S. armed forces could not act effectively to prevent that result, especially in the vulnerable distressed areas of northeast Thailand.

Despite this gloomy assessment, the Thai government continues to act on an opposite theory—that South Viet Nam and the crucial western portions of Laos will somehow be kept out of Red hands.

In the past few weeks, the government has presided over several heartening developments aimed at combating subversion and improving Thailand's position.

A new 50-kilowatt radio transmitter, second of two paid for by Australia to help offset regular subversive broadcasts from Peking and North Viet Nam, was opened in the northeastern provincial capital, Khon Kaen. The two are intended to blanket the region with answering government propaganda.

(A third government transmitter is being built at Yala in the far south, where 500 guerrillas left over from the Malayan war are very active on Thai soil.)

The latest in a chain of three television relay stations was dedicated in the beleaguered northeast. These stations pass on signals which originate in Bangkok. There will be others, including one in the south at Songkhla.

At Khon Kaen, a new university is rising with the financial aid of Australia, New Zealand and Canada. Education in the backward northeast will get a strong lift.

In the same sector, important progress has been noted on the Nam Pong multipurpose water project, including the Pong Neeb dam, to help provide better water supplies, economical electrical energy and flood control. The final target date is 1967.

Amid these visible changes in the vulnerable northeast, the government's mobile development units continue heightened efforts to improve health, agricultural and educational conditions there and elsewhere in the hinterland.

Meanwhile, Bangkok is turning a harder military force toward the still-mounting subversion which, in the last six months, led to the assassination of nearly 50 village chiefs, teachers and others in six northeast provinces.

A "Communist Suppression Command" has been established to pool intelligence and police forces for the work of putting down roving Red guerrilla bands.

With Thailand and Malaysia now acting jointly through a Regional Border Committee, tougher efforts are under way to seek out and suppress the southern guerrilla remnants.

Said a Thai official: "We will now get them in their own camps instead of waiting for them to come out."

A few months ago Bangkok threw a sizable armed force into the northeast to combat rising subversive activity. The army now uses a helicopter-borne battalion of 1,500 to sweep Thai foothills in search of guerrillas.

The government's main reliance, however, is still on police and border patrols. Part of a $12 million 1965 grant from the United States is being used to bolster antiraid police forces.

Notwithstanding these stepped-up efforts, guerrilla activity is growing. It is held within tolerable bounds only because Thai authorities have prevented any major linkup of the isolated rebel bands, and because the Reds hold too few points on the Mekong to allow really heavy infiltration. As it is, their numbers, north and south must be placed somewhere in the range of 1,200 to 1,500.

Obviously unwilling to convict itself of inadequacy, Bangkok occasionally utters optimistic comment on the war against subversion. Most of the time, however, it emphasizes the peril. Observed one Thai official with a sad smile: "We are just lucky the Communists today hold so little of the land along our borders."

ESCANABA CITY COUNCIL
I have read with continued interest the City Council's decision to update the municipal airport to the extent of $350,000, of which $150,000 is to be paid by the residents of Escanaba.

I question the Council's judgment in making this decision. It shows little foresight to the growth of the City of Escanaba. By its own admission the Council has stated that the area bordering the airport is one of the fastest growing in the city; yet, it intends to limit this growth by expanding this facility at its present location.

I agree that our airport leaves something to be desired and should be improved to facilitate future air traffic, but, not within the city limits of Escanaba. To do so would withhold several hundred acres of prime residential and commercial land from future tax rolls.

In the near future, land within the city limits will be of great importance to our expected growth. In order that the people of Escanaba benefit fully from any progress, it is imperative that commercial and residential land be available within the city limits.

I am of the opinion that the eventual sale of the acreage composing the municipal airport would more than defer the city's cost in relocating the airport and that the tax revenue from this land would be of great benefit to the people of Escanaba.

To further express my objection to this expansion, I cannot condone the danger to our school children and residents in the glide path of low flying aircraft, nor, to the extremely loud noise of jet engines.

I herein respectfully request the City Council to reconsider the decision to expand the present airport in favor of relocating the facility in a less populated and less burdensome area within the county but outside the city limits of Escanaba.

BARBS

By WALTER C. PARKES

Thrift is making one dollar do the work of two. A neat trick when the dollar's only worth 50 cents.

If you take a cold to the office, turn right around and take it back home.

Making out that return for Uncle Sam is very taxing work.

Australia and the Bahamas have adopted our decimal currency system. Bet dollars to cents they'll find it more convenient.

The Shape of the Cross

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.

The going was rough and the Cross was rude Jesus fell. That Cross was not a nicely planned, evenly veneered emblem. It was a crosspiece of rude timbers, heavy, with splintery edges to bite into the shoulders of a man who had been flogged, subjected to pressures and now forced to drag this crushing load.

This was no gentle cradle except for the fact that He took it willingly. He could have dodged it. Instead, He took it.

You can take up a rough load if you have a living faith and an honest relationship with God.

A person can have many doubts, which add to the load, and yet keep the commitment of carrying the rough cross. It's not only in international tensions and in the enormous national problems; often it's within our own households or neighborhoods where the climate of honesty, the integrity of faith and the boldness of decisive action pushes splinters into the body, creating festering hurts.

It's never easy and it makes sense only if there is a faith that this is the only way. It's not a cradle but there's the security of loving integrity!

Romney Steps Into Road Tiff

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said Thursday his office would check on whether the State Highway Commission violated its own rules when it canceled an already agreed-upon route for part of the I 696 freeway.

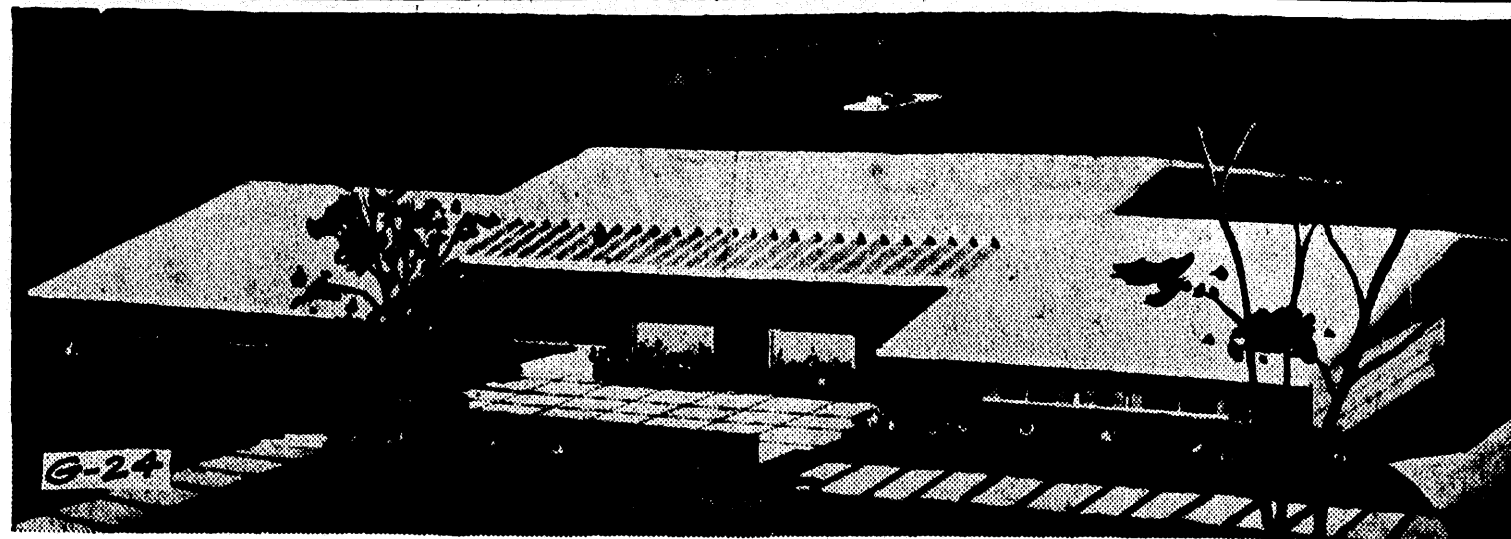

At issue is a commission by-law requiring five days' written notice for a special meeting. The commission made its decision on the $140 million I 696 project March 3, two days after its regular meeting.

Wallace Nunn, the only one of the four commissioners immediately available for comment, said there was no notice of the March 3 meeting except that the commissioners had planned to be in Lansing for Senate Judiciary Committee hearings.

The commission ordered Highway Department employees to propose alternate routes for the 18-mile freeway segment to connect Northwestern Highway in Southfield with I 94 at St. Clair Shores.

Gov. George Romney said Thursday he personally will step into the I 696 routing question.

About 100 of Denmark's 500 islands are inhabited.

DISTINGUISHED DWELLING: The owners of this smooth-appearing, three-bedroom ranch house could expect to have passersby cast admiring glances at its symmetrical lines, broad overhangs and general all-around air of distinction.

Has Raised Living Room

By ANDY LANG

High style and the ease and convenience of modern living are the trademarks of this new ranch, designed especially for the House of the Week series. It is a long, low home in the tradition of the prairie houses with their wide, sheltering roofs and broad overhangs.

The over-all feeling is that of a warm contemporary residence, rooted to the earth. The symmetrical exterior design, with its two projecting wings, adds to this feeling. The wings act as two arms reaching out and embracing a sheltered entrance court, with its planters and walls. Although the rear patio is optional, a similar treatment of this area is shown in the floor plans in order to aid the prospective owner in developing a landscaping arrangement in keeping with the pattern of the home.

FLOOR PLANS: A general air of spaciousness has been created by architect Samuel Paul by having openings between the kitchen and dinette, and the dinette and family room, which in turn looks out, through a sliding glass door, to the rear patio.

G-24 STATISTICS

Design G-24 has a living room, dining room, kitchen, dinette, family room, two bedrooms, three bedrooms and two baths, comprising a habitable area of 1810 square feet. In addition, at the right side of the house, there is a rear service entrance, a laundry area, a third full bath and a two-car garage with plenty of room for a full-size workshop. Over-all dimensions are 83' by 38' 11".

While this is basically a ranch, affording the convenience of one-level living, a few steps (four, to be exact) have been introduced into the interior layout. These steps, aside from adding a touch of glamour, serve to zone the bedroom and service wings from the central activity zone. The steps also help to adjust this home to a modest slope should one exist.

All this distinctiveness is immediately apparent upon entering the slate-floored reception foyer. Straight ahead, in the formal living room, Architect Samuel Paul has given the entire area, with its cathedral ceilings and paneled walls, a dramatic tone.

To the left of the foyer is the bedroom wing. There are three bedrooms, two full baths with large vanities in each, and an abundance of closet space. All rooms open to a private foyer.

Within the central activity area of the house there are, in addition to the living room, a family room, a formal dining room and a kitchen with a separate dinette. Note the unusual disposition of the space there: the living room and family room both face the rear patio; they are separated by a two-way fireplace straddled by built-in cabinets and shelving facing each room. And each room has a sliding door to the patio, with the family room featuring a built-in sofa facing the fireplace.

ELEGANT ENTRANCE: This is the view from the slate-floored foyer, showing part of the raised living room, with a sliding glass door leading to the rear patio.

The dining room and the kitchen-dinette all face the front terrace. The kitchen boasts a wealth of counter space and plenty of built-ins. It is open on one side to the dinette area, which in turn opens to the family room, thus producing an air of spaciousness to the whole. This same feeling can be created between the living room and the formal dining room by employing some type of decorative wall or screen between the living room and the hall which divides the two rooms.

One of the most interesting aspects of this home is the continuous cathedral ceiling which encompasses the entire activity wing, save for the hall. The right wing includes the service facilities. There are, aside from the two-car garage, a large workshop area, a rear service entrance, two storage closets, a laundry section and a third full bath complete with a stall shower. The kitchen is only a few steps from all this, as well as from the stairway to the basement.

Design G-24, with its smart exterior and neatly-arranged interior, would be an excellent choice for the family which has a plot with enough frontage and the inclination to own a handsome home.

Car Production Upped For Week

DETROIT (AP)—Boosted by American Motors Corp.'s return to production, the U. S. auto industry turned out 199,883 automobiles this week, the trade publication Automotive News estimated Thursday.

Automotive News said the week's output was an increase over the 194,994 cars built last week, but was less than the 213,263 autos produced in the comparable week of 1965.

American Motors resumed operations after two weeks of idleness during which its plants were closed to bring inventory in line with the sales pace.

The week's total brought car completions for the year to 1,940,825, compared with 2,017,026 for the same period of 1965.

Birth Rate Dips For State In '65

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's baby production dropped again last year, continuing a steady decline, the State Health Department reported Thursday.

The department said the state had 165,483 registered births in 1965, a decline of 8,845 from the 173,968 births in 1964.

Every month of 1964 showed a drop from the comparable month the year before. January had the lowest birth rate last year.

Births have shown a steady downward trend since a high of 207,277 was recorded for the state in 1957.

Hints from Heloise

BY HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Folks:
Gather 'round 'cause I'm going to tell you something that will make your ears perk up and your eyes shine!

We've received several letters suggesting water and our old stand-by vinegar to remove the chalky sediment in our glass coffee pots.

I had one of them that looked pretty rough.

I put in at least half a cup of vinegar (depending on size of pot) and enough water to cover the sediment line in the pot. . . . let it boil about five minutes, and every trace of that sediment disappeared!

I can almost see you grinning in disbelief, but after you try this method, that grin is going to turn into a smile!

Drink your cup of coffee and lift a toast to the sweet gals who suggest this SAFE, simple, and super way to have crystal-clear glass coffee pots!

Heloise
P.S. This strong vinegar water may be poured in a fruit jar and used over and over again.

Dear Heloise:
I hang my head scarves on a multiple skirt hanger. This is an excellent way to keep them neat and handy.
Alice Gerosky

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:
My husband has the answer to a recent question to your column . . . "Why do some barns have windows painted on them?"

He said, "That's easy. Write Heloise and tell her that when the farmer gets hungry for friend chicken, he goes out to the barnyard and chases a chicken. The chicken spies the 'window' and says to himself (?), 'Oh boy, a way of escape.' He tries to fly through the window, and falls to the ground with a broken neck. The farmer takes it from there."

Personally, I'd rather buy my chicken in the supermarket, cut up and ready to fry!

Gwyn Brown

Dear Heloise:
Surely dozens of your readers have odd color towels which are misfits in a new color scheme.

Last month I redecorated my bathroom in gold and white. Needless to say, my used pink and blue towels were not at home there.

A friend had done her bathroom in pink. So . . . we made a trade. Her yellow towels are lovely for me, and I hope my pink and blue ones are attractive in her home.

Mrs. Chas. Wallace

Dear Heloise:
I use a soft rag dipped in kerosene to remove those tar spots and grease spots from our car . . . caused by roads. This is the only thing that I have ever found that will remove it.

I have used it for years without damage to the body paint. I then wash the auto as usual with the regular suds, and wax it.

Auntie

Dear Auntie:
How can we ever thank you enough? It works like a charm.
Niece Heloise

Dear Heloise:
Half-aprons make wonderful bibs for toddlers, and older children who spill soup and other food on their shirts.

Watch it though! They can also hide those hated potatoes and vegetables in the pockets!

C. Tims

Dear Heloise:
I cook my asparagus "heads up", and many of us don't have a pan tall enough to do this—and still be able to put the lid on.

The next time, when you cook asparagus, stand it in the bottom of your double boiler and invert the upper half of the boiler over it.

Works like a charm.
Marianne

Dear Heloise:
I placed a few of the coffee can plastic tops under each tray in the freezer compartment of my refrigerator.

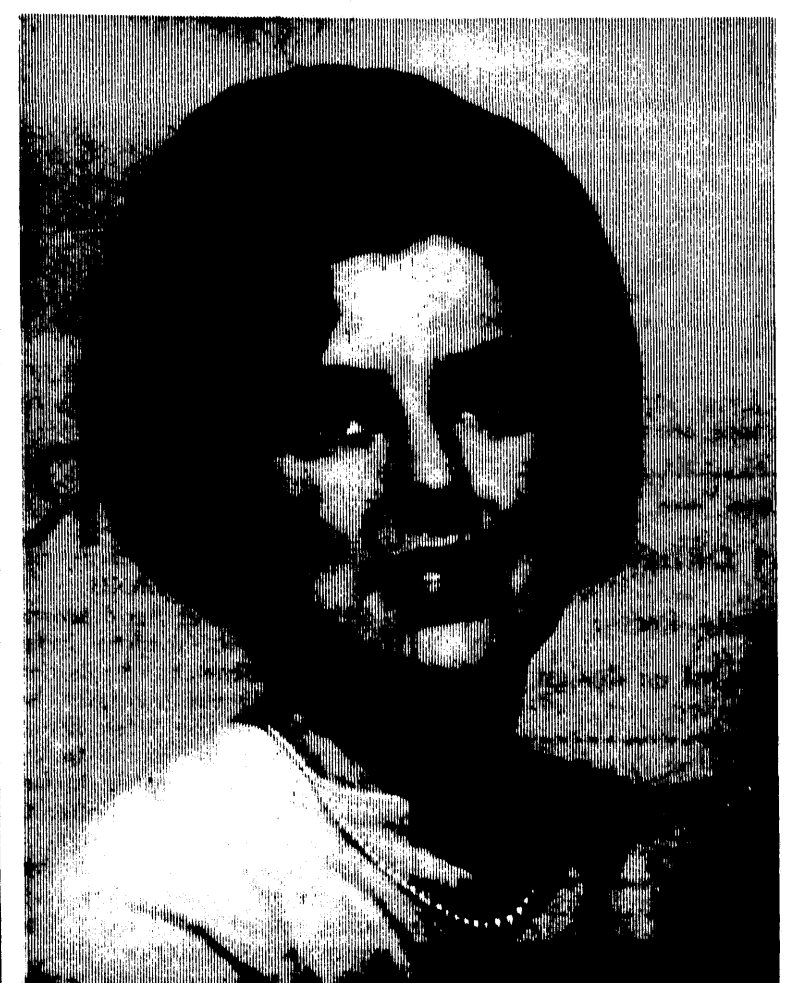

No more tugging to loosen the trays.
Kathleen Houlihan

Dear Heloise:
I learned this from my grandmother many years ago.

When you are folding clothes from your wash that are not to be ironed, take a few seconds and fold the pieces that need to be ironed — just one large fold may be sufficient, and you'll find fewer wrinkles in the clothes when they are to be ironed.

If your laundry is a large one, you'll also find it takes up less space in your basket, when folded.

No Improvement Seen In Summer Network Shows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The three major television networks are now in the midst of setting up schedules for next fall. Already the publicists are beating their drums to excite us about all the delights in store — six months ahead.

Under normal circumstances, television is very sensitive about utterances of members of the Federal Communications Commission, which controls the licensing of broadcasting.

It was last Sept. 24 when FCC Chairman E. William Henry, addressing the International Radio and Television Society, asked:

"I wonder how many regular television viewers are satisfied with their summer diet? How many are content with the steady stream of network repeats, reruns, and repeats? How many enjoy rehashing yesterday's cud? How many have developed tired television blood without realizing that it is simply a long, long time from May to September?"

Then he suggested that "the networks' summer sista should become a summer workshop — seeking new sources, new directions, new concepts, new formats, new faces," and dedicated to program development and experimentation.

Maybe the networks were not listening attentively. Anyway, this summer's sleepy time looks pretty much like any other. Out of close to 100 evening programs, all but 11 will be repeats.

CBS' "What's My Line?" on Sundays will, as usual, stay with new shows all through the warm weather. On Monday night, singer John Davidson will star in a variety show to replace Andy Williams on NBC; Art Linkletter's "Hollywood Talent Scouts" will continue with new material, and ABC's "Avengers" — a British import that does not replace "Ben Casey" until the end of this month — will have fresh stories.

Red Skelton on CBS Tuesdays will have a substitute in "Hippodrome," a collection of circus acts. John Gary, the singer who has become almost a regular on "The Danny Kaye Show" will take over that CBS hour for the season on Wednesdays.

The comedy team of Rowan and Martin have the hour show of Dean Martin (no relation) on NBC Thursdays, and "Mona McCluskey" will be replaced by a half-hour musical show called "Mickie Finn's." "The Baron," another new British import on ABC, will have story lines not previously seen by American audiences.

There will be "Court-Martial," still another British-made series on ABC Fridays, replacing Jimmy Dean's hour. And on Saturday, a variety hour will be cooked up so that Jackie Gleason can have the summer off.

The dill, a plant of the parsley family, is said to be the anise spoken of in the Bible.

TRACKING APOLLO — The flight plan for the first operational test of the three-man Apollo spacecraft, designed to carry American astronauts to the moon by the end of the decade, calls for a sub-orbital launching down the Atlantic Range from Cape Kennedy to a splash-down point beyond Ascension Island. The unmanned capsule will be lifted to a 30-mile altitude by Saturn-1B rocket and then rammed back toward earth to test efficiency of the heat shield. Heavy line on Newsmap marks the route. Bars indicate land tracking stations and the ship Rose Knot keeping tabs on the Apollo at successive stages of the journey. Flight sequences are 1) separation altitude; 2) second-stage spacecraft separation; 3) altitude apogee; 4) first service module propulsion burn; 5) service propulsion cut-off; 6) second service module propulsion burn, and 7) second service propulsion cut-off.

Mental Health Jobs Unfilled

LANSING (AP) — The state has been unable to fill nearly 400 new mental health jobs ranging from psychiatrist to male nurse, Mental Health Director Robert Kimmich said here.

Kimmich told the Senate Appropriations Committee, "we have talked to civil service about an aggressive, imaginative approach, but they haven't been able to do it yet . . . they offer routine examination announcements and some classified ads."

He said other states have "teams touring the country and hiring people on the spot."

The professional mental health market is so tight, Kimmich said, "that we have to steal from outside the state." He said so far Michigan has won more specialists than it's lost in the national competition.

Kimmich himself came to his $35,000 job less than two years ago from San Francisco. The department's newest major acquisition is Dr. E. Gordon Yudashkin, arriving late this month from Ling Island, N.Y., for the $25,306 job as superintendent of Northville State Hospital.

Kimmich said the hiring situation could improve "if we can do some of those recruitment team things—but they're expensive."

He said he does not think the Civil Service Commission opposes the idea—"they just feel they can't do it."

A commission spokesman said later "if mental health wants to send out teams into their states, this is not something we could underwrite."

He said that in 1964-65 more than half of the commission's $38,000 advertising budget was spent on behalf of mental health hiring "and it looks like it will be about the same this year."

Mennen Williams as public relations director in the latter's campaign for Democratic nomination to the U. S. Senate. Robinson, 41, was chief of the Free Press Lansing bureau before going to Washington.

Judy Lynn's Life Hangs In Balance

ANN ARBOR (AP) — With a heart specialist constantly at her bedside and her worried parents hovering nearby, tiny 5-year-old Judy Lynn Funsch balanced precariously today between life and death.

"She actually looks very good," said Judy's mother, Mrs. Clarence Funsch after the parents emerged from the recovery room where the little girl will be watched closely for at least two days.

But Mrs. Funsch was in tears.

Blast Injures 3 At Holland

HOLLAND (AP) — An explosion and fire at a Holland pharmaceutical manufacturing firm injured three workmen Thursday night. One was burned critically.

The explosion and fire at the De Pree Co. happened as 900 gallons of alcohol were being pumped from a tanker truck on a street to third floor storage.

Firemen said a hose joint apparently loosened and sprayed alcohol on a hot light bulb, causing an explosion.

William Johnson, 31, of Holland, was reported burned critically.

A damage estimate was not available immediately.

Multi-Million Project Will Make 200 Jobs

Williams, welder plant manager. Fish said: "We asked for the opportunity to give all of our people the chance to show they could justify expansion here rather than elsewhere. We now have that opportunity and since it insures long range job security for all, I am sure all will give their full support."

Some Displacements

Williams said: "Recently I visited our major competitors in the welding industry and saw how hard they were working to improve production techniques. When I returned I said that if we could have their modern equipment and our people, we could become the leaders. We have the best people and now will get the other assets. We can't lose."

Both managers pointed out that, although 200 jobs would be added when the program is completed, the great complexity of the program meant that temporary displacements of some people might result as construction gets underway and readjustments are made. They said the company would make every possible effort to offset temporarily economic impact on those individuals involved.

Local retraining programs will be offered and plans are also underway for a comprehensive offering of special self-improvement courses at Bay de Noc Community College.

The company has dubbed the project "Operation Green Light — Go and Grow With Escanaba" and said that an intense and continuous information program would be launched to keep all employees and the community fully informed on the details and progress of the "operation."

C-C Watches State Affairs

The Escanaba Chamber of Commerce State Affairs committee, John Stoll chairman, has embarked on a legislative action network in cooperation with the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, the Board of Directors of the Escanaba Chamber was advised Thursday. President Forrest Henslee conducted the meeting.

The Michigan State Chamber takes an official position on certain major legislation that would affect the development of the state, and prepares material on such proposals for use in advising legislators, public officials, business and organization members. The State Affairs committee will make known to the State Chamber and its legislative representatives, the views of the Escanaba Chamber and local citizens on state legislation.

New Chamber members accepted are Tom Swift, Bark River; Pascoe Home Builder, James W. Pascoe; and Field Enterprises Education Corps, Mrs. Frances Gosselin.

Street Carnival

Claude Bohn, chairman of the Education committee, reported on proposed plans for an Education Appreciation Day and Teacher Career Month. The Board concurred in a recommendation that the chairman and members of the Education committee assist the Escanaba Kiwanis Club in securing resource people for high school career days and in counseling high school students on a year round basis with specific information needed for their future careers.

Retail Chairman Dean Abbott reported that the Sidewalk Day committee of the retail division had finalized plans for a street carnival for several days in July. The Escanaba City Council has approved a request of the retail division to block off three blocks on Ludington St. during the promotion.

"This will stimulate interest in the event and serve as an added attraction during the July Sidewalk Days, which has been an annual event for a number of years," said Abbott. He expressed the appreciation of the division to the City Council for its cooperation.

A communication was read from Harold J. Vanlerberghe, chairman of the U. P. Air Service committee, expressing the appreciation of the committee to Manager Walter Lewke for circulating an air service questionnaire throughout most of Upper Michigan. "The response to the questionnaire is most impressive and the suggestions and remarks thereon will be very helpful in our efforts to improve air service," said Vanlerberghe.

Information in the questionnaires has been compiled and analyzed by Al Halcil and his staff of UPACAP and will be made available to Joseph Belitzke, assistant attorney general of Michigan who has been assigned to assist the air service committee.

Farms, Railroad

Don Breault, chairman of the Aviation committee, will represent the Chamber at a meeting on plans for airport development called by City Manager George Harvey on March 17 at the City Hall. The Chamber will make information available to the meeting on the possibility of various local agencies re-locating their operations to the airport and becoming tenants in the proposed terminal building.

The Agriculture committee, co-chairmen George Bathke and Dick Marenger, have completed plans for a beef cattle farm tour of the Garden Peninsula on Wednesday, June 22. Other tours are being planned for other areas of the county to include milk farms of the area.

The Board heard communications from various departments of the Chicago & North Western Railway Co., Senators Philip A. Hart and Patrick V. McNamara, and Congressman Raymond Clevenger, expressing appreciation for the support of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce on the proposed merger of the C&NW Railway and Rock Island Railway and opposing the proposed Union Pacific-Rock Island merger.

Manager Lewke is representing the Escanaba area at the Chicago National Boat, Travel and Outdoor Show, Chicago, this week; and will be at the Milwaukee Sentinel Sports Show in the Milwaukee Arena and Auditorium next week. Escanaba and Delta County folders are being distributed to show visitors.

Crowded Training Centers:

Guard Readiness Periled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The readiness of many Army National Guard units probably will be set back because they must give individual training to recruits unable to get into crowded Army basic training centers, sources said today.

Such units chiefly are in what is called the immediate reserve, totaling about 184,000 men in 1,680 formations.

Though called the immediate reserve, this force actually is a second-line reserve. However, it has a definite role in certain contingency war plans.

Another contributing factor to retarding the readiness of such units is their loss of trucks and other vehicles, communications equipment, artillery, machine guns and other equipment.

Gear has been drawn off from the immediate reserve and from a third-line, reinforcing reserve, to build up what the Pentagon calls its selected force.

Selected Force

The selected force is getting priority treatment in a build-up of its manpower, equipment and training designed to have it in shape for possible mobilization as early as July 1.

This selected force totals about 150,000 men, including 31,000 Army Reservists, built around three infantry divisions and six independent infantry brigades.

If a mobilization were needed for the Viet Nam war — and Pentagon officials have said this is unlikely — the selected force would go first.

The immediate reserve, under present plans, would be used for crises which might arise elsewhere in the world.

Adds Training Time

Under present plans, it would be trained for 16 weeks after mobilization before being ready for deployment.

However, sources said that the need to give individual

Youth Jailed, Licensee Cited On Beer Charge

An Escanaba youth and a woman bartender were charged in connection with the purchase by the 17-year-old of beer at the Avenue Bar Thursday night, Escanaba police reported today.

Edward J. LaLond, 17, of 220 N. 11th St., pleaded guilty in municipal court to a charge of being a minor in possession of beer and was sentenced to 15 days in the Delta County jail when he failed to pay a fine of $25 and costs of $5. He is also to be on probation for 60 days.

Mrs. Mary Lark of 521 Ogden Ave., was said by Escanaba police to have admitted selling the beer to the youth. The Avenue Bar was cited to the Michigan Liquor Control Commission for selling beer to a minor.

The youth was arrested by police on the front steps of the tavern with two quarts of beer in his possession.

McLaughlin And Laitala To Keep Game Positions

LANSING (AP) — Robert McLaughlin will get back-door confirmation as State Conservation Commission chairman but the Senate Thursday night rejected Agriculture Commissioner Chairman Blague Knirk.

After a day of committee meetings and Democratic caucuses ignited by a charge against McLaughlin of racial slur, the Senate Business Committee took no action on his appointment.

That means he will be automatically confirmed Saturday, 60 days after his appointment by Gov. George Romney.

The business committee reported without recommendation the nomination of another conservation commissioner, E. M. Laitala of Hancock, but the full Senate okayed him 25-8.

Regent Power Quits M Post

LANSING (AP) — University of Michigan regent Eugene Power resigned today.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley ruled Powers' business relationship with the university violated the "substantial conflict of interest" clause of the Michigan Constitution.

In a prepared statement released shortly after Kelley's report, Power said "I have decided that it is in the best interests of the university and the commons with which I am concerned if I resign at once from the office of regent, and I shall submit my notice to the Board of Regents later today."

"Under the present situation, it becomes impossible for me to continue to serve both as a regent of the university and as an officer of University Microfilms, Inc., especially in view of the plans for increased participation in the field of education by both University Microfilms and Xerox Corp., of which I am a director," he added.

MARQUETTE—The first thing that strikes the visiting sports writer at the annual Upper Peninsula regional high school basketball tournament is the professional style of host Northern Michigan University officials. . . . Tourney manager C. V. (Red) Money is an artist at staging the complicated prep classic which can best be described as a madhouse. . . . His

Fred Boddy

NMU tournament staff operates like a well oiled machine in handling the countless problems that come up in a continuous stream.

Fred Boddy, coach of the Class C Marquette Baraga Royals, gives the tournament an Escanaba flavor. . . . Boddy was one of Escanaba's all-time high school athletic greats as a basketball player, football quarterback and baseball pitcher. . . . He made the All-U.P. first team in basketball twice, the second team in football and pitched the Esky baseball team to an undefeated season in the spring of 1953. . . . In his senior cage season Boddy scored 360 points in 18 starts for an average of 20 per game, but was even more noted for his fabulous ball handling and passing.

Several readers questioned a recent column item which stated that Trout Creek's Bob Gale is only the fourth player in Upper Peninsula history to score over 600 points in a regular season. . . . They wondered where Stephenson's great Mel Peterson ranked in the list which included Jim Manning of Trout Creek, Irv Scholtz and Ron Povoilo of Hermansville. . . . Marvelous Mel didn't quite make it, getting 570 in the regular season and 279 in the tournaments for an overall 849.

One figure you can't miss at the Northern fieldhouse is that of Con Zagodzinski, the former Holy Name prep star who played a major part in the success of the Northern Wildcat basketball campaign this season. . . . The 6 foot 5 inch junior was the third leading scorer for Coach Stan Albeck with 320 points for a 14.5 average. . . . He was No. 2 in the rebounding department with 228, an average of 10.3 per game. . . . Top man in both categories was All-American Gene Summers, a 6 foot 4 inch senior, with 660 points and 308 rebounds.

Coach Bruce Warren's Trout Creek Anglers scored points at an unprecedented pace this season. . . . Paced by lanky Bob Gale, Trout Creek set an all-time Upper Peninsula team scoring record with 1,709 points, an average of just under 95 per game. . . . The Anglers set another record by topping the century mark six times in the regular season. . . . Warren, a former Purdue University football player, owns an impressive 221-90 career coaching record at Trout Creek. . . . His Anglers were the only team to run up a perfect record in the U.P. this season.

Houghton is one of the most familiar teams of all in Upper Peninsula tournament competition. . . . The Greenlins, here by virtue of a stunning 57-55 upset over cross-town rival Hancock, have competed in 13 of the last 17 U.P. tourneys, including a stretch of six in a row that was snapped last season. . . . Current coach Fritz Wilson, a former Marquette Pierce prep star and Northern Michigan eager, has had his Greenlins in the U.P. tourney in three of his four years at the post. . . . He formerly coached at Menominee.

Cazzie, Michigan Seek Remaining Court Goal

By The Associated Press
Cazzie Russell, Michigan's college basketball player of the year, starts tonight on the road he hopes will reach his one remaining goal in the college sport. He never has played on a national championship team and this is his last chance.

The two-time All-American has sparked Michigan to three straight Big Ten titles. He leads the Wolverines against dangerous Western Kentucky, the Ohio Valley Conference champs, in the Midwest regionals at Iowa City, Iowa.

The NCAA championship tournament enters its second round with eight games at four regional sites.

Meantime, the NIT opened in New York Thursday night with Temple beating Virginia Tech 88-73 and NYU edging De Paul 86-85. Southern Illinois and Kentucky Wesleyan reached the final of the NCAA small-college tourney while Central State of Ohio, the defending champion, was eliminated in the quarter-finals of the NAIA.

In his sophomore year, Russell led Michigan to a third-place finish in the NCAA and to second place behind UCLA last season. Another notch upwards this year and Russell will reach his goal.

The nationally top-ranked Kentucky Wildcats battle the Dayton Flyers in the first game of the Midwest regionals at Iowa City.

The second-ranked Duke Blue Devils oppose the fifth-ranked St. Joseph's Hawks of Philadelphia in another attractive doubleheader in the East regionals at Raleigh, N.C. Davidson and Syracuse also meet at Raleigh.

Third-ranked Texas Western meets Cincinnati, the Missouri Valley Conference titlist, and Kansas, the Big Eight champs, tangle with Southern Methodist, the Southwest Conference champs, in the Midwest regionals at Lubbock, Tex.

Rounding out the NCAA program is the Far West regional at Los Angeles. Oregon State, the PAC champs, go against the Houston Cougars after U. of Pacific, the WCAC titlist, plays Utah's Redskins, who won the WAC crown.

Clarence Brookins, with 29, and Jim Williams, with 24, combined for 53 points — 36 in the first half — to lead Temple over Virginia Tech in the first round

'Sunny Jim' Dies In Miami Hospital

MIAMI (AP)—James "Sunny Jim" Fitzsimmons, king of American racehorse trainers, died in a hospital here today at the age of 91, according to a grandson.

Bob Carr, the grandson, did not give further details immediately on how long Fitzsimmons had been in the hospital.

Known respectfully and affectionately as "Mr. Fitz" or "Sunny Jim," Fitzsimmons had devoted more than 75 years to riding and training horses. He saddled winners everywhere from the half mile tracks on the "leaky roof" circuit, where he sometimes went without a meal to see that his horses were fed to the "Big A" — the multi-million-dollar Aqueduct track in New York.

It was natural that "Sunny Jim" Fitzsimmons should spend his long and active life around race tracks. He was born in a farmhouse in the Sheephead

Terrell Out Of Clay Bout

TORONTO (AP)—Ernie Terrell is out as the opponent of champion Cassius Clay in the scheduled world heavyweight title bout here March 29.

George Chuvalo, the Canadian champion, was expected to be named today as his replacement.

Terrell was dropped as Clay's opponent Thursday night by Mike Malitz, executive vice president of Main Bout, Inc., which holds the ancillary rights.

"His demands were too exorbitant," Malitz said at Atlantic City, N.J., after a three-hour conference with Terrell in an effort to iron out their differences.

Terrell rejected Wednesday the new contract offered him by the Maple Leaf Gardens, but left the door open for negotiation. He and Malitz met at his training camp in Pleasantville, N.J.

"His demands were unreasonable and exorbitant in view of the conditions prevailing," Malitz said. "He thinks he is the heavyweight champion of the world which we do not think he is. And while we do not condone any statement made by Clay in regard to his being reclassified 1-A in the draft, titles are still won in the ring and not by Terrell, recognized as champion by the World Boxing Association, did not take into consideration the changed conditions, a spokesman for Main Bout said later.

"Many of the theaters counted on for the closed telecast of the fight have canceled because of Clay's comments on the war in Viet Nam," the spokesman said. "Terrell was asked if he would accept $75,000 guarantee from all sources plus training expenses but he turned it down."

"More power to him," Terrell declared when he learned of Malitz's statement that he had been dropped.

Asked First Terms
"All we asked for were the terms in the original Chicago contract where we were guaranteed $50,000 from the live gate, $100,000 from the ancillary receipts and $12,500 in training expenses."

Permission to hold the fight in Chicago was withdrawn, thus leading to a new contract when Maple Leaf Gardens agreed to hold the fight.

Clay flew to Toronto from Miami Thursday and signed to defend his title on March 29 against Terrell or a "suitable substitute."

"If Terrell doesn't come here to fight me, I'd like to fight the man most deserving of the next shot, Chuvalo," Clay said before returning to Florida.

Chuvalo was outpointed by Terrell in a 15-rounder here last November.

of the NIT at Madison Square Garden in New York. Richie Dyer's three free throws in the last two minutes accounted for NYU's margin over the De Paul Blue Demons.

Southern Illinois downed North Dakota 69-61 and Kentucky Wesleyan routed Akron 105-75 in gaining tonight's championship game in the NCAA small-college tourney at Evansville, Ind.

Norfolk State knocked out Central State of Ohio 89-76 in the NAIA quarter-finals at Kansas City. Grambling edged Rockhurst 84-82, Oklahoma Baptist whipped Carson Newman 87-62 and Georgia Southern whacked Illinois Wesleyan 96-72 in the other games.

The Tigers played their last game ever in Henley Field Thursday, with Coach Bob Swift's regulars defeating Coach Frank Skaff's crew, 6-3.

Mickey Stanley, apparently determined to make it big as the starting centerfielder, got four hits in five trips to pace the victory. Stanley has collected 10 hits in 14 appearances in four squad games to date.

The Tigers moved over to Marchant Stadium, their new $500,000 facility, for a practice session today and will open the Grapefruit League season against the defending American League champion Minnesota Twins Saturday.

Tigers To Avoid Trading Market

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Detroit Vice-President and General Manager James A. Campbell said Thursday the Tigers will stay out of the trading market until after the season opens.

Campbell added that any trade would hinge on how well Dave Wickersham performs as the team's No. 1 relief pitcher.

"We have to sit back now and see just what we've got," he said. "Any weakness we may have will turn up, I think, only after the first few weeks of the regular season."

If Wickersham comes through, he explained, a deal may be made to make room for rookie hurlers John Hiller or Bill Graham.

MARQUETTE—An astounding shooting performance by guard David Smith of Powers-Spaulding had the capacity crowd at the Northern Michigan University fieldhouse buzzing Thursday night but it didn't keep the Tigers from bowing out of the Class D regional tournament, 73-63, to Negaunee St. Paul.

In the other semifinal game played last night an equally stunning exhibition of marksmanship by Trout Creek's Don Besonen led the Anglers to an easy 82-65 triumph over Mass. Smith scorched the nets with 33 points, connecting on 15 field goals with a deadly short jumper and adding three gift tosses. At one stage in the game the 5-foot, 10-inch guard took the complete Tiger scoring burden on his shoulders, scoring 17 straight points from late in the third period to midway in the fourth.

Frigid Start
Unfortunately for Coach Tom Lequia, Smith was the only Tiger who was able to find the range. His next top point producer was Richard Piche with nine. Big Bill Hawrylow, hampered by early fouls, was limited to five points before taking an early shower with 5:11 remaining in the game.

A frigid start in the first period and another slow get-away in the second doomed the Big Seven Conference quint. The Tigers trailed 9-0 before they scored their first point on a free throw by Piche with 4:32 remaining in the opening quarter. They trailed at the end of the period, 19-8.

St. Paul then tossed in seven straight points to open the second period to lead, 26-8. At halftime Coach Gordy LeDuc's Emeralds had a 41-27 margin.

The Tigers never recovered, although they outscored the Emeralds by a 21-13 margin in the final frame. George Torreano and Pete Meli led the Mid-Peninsula Conference champs with 49 points between them and Ray Jandron chipped in 13.

Meet Saturday
The victory gives St. Paul a 15-6 record entering Saturday afternoon finals against Trout Creek. Powers closed out its season with a 17-6 mark.

Although he finished two points short of Smith's total with 31, Besonen's scoring performance was even more amazing. The 6-foot, 3-inch forward canned the first 12 shots he took from the field and finished with 15 of 17 attempts. He was perfect from the foul line, hitting his one opportunity.

Bob Gale, this year's Upper Peninsula regular season scoring champion, fired in 13 field goals and a free throw for 27 points to boost his total to 722.

Trout Creek ran its victory string to 22 by taking control from the opening tipoff. The Anglers hit their first four shots in the game and led 22-9 at the end of the initial period.

For the game they connected on 63 per cent from the field, scoring 39 goals out of 62 attempts. They also had a big 37 to 19 edge in the rebounding department.

Trout Creek and St. Paul met twice during the regular season with the Anglers winning both games, 62-33 and 91-80.

New-Look Yankees Ferocious In Grapefruit League Debut

By The Associated Press

Johnny Keane's new-look Yankees were ferocious enough to pass for the oldtime variety as baseball's spring training exhibition season got under way. But first impressions can be deceiving. The New Yorkers, perennial American League champions until last season, won their first five exhibition games a year ago and wound up with their worst regular season record in 40 years.

So don't blame Keane for not getting too excited about Thursday's 7-4 victory over Washington that featured two-run homers by Joe Pepitone and Clete Boyer and three airtight innings by Bob Friend, making his first appearance in a Yankee uniform.

The Yankees, playing without power hitters Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris and Tommy Tresh, sprayed 11 hits off four Washington pitchers. Both Pepitone and Boyer connected in the fourth inning against Frank Kreutzler.

Friend, acquired in a winter trade with Pittsburgh for righty Pete Mikkelsen, worked the first three innings and limited the Senators to three singles. John Orsino and Ken Hamlin homered for Washington.

Four other exhibition games opened the citrus season. The defending American League champion Minnesota Twins wiped out a 6-0 Houston lead but bowed to the Astros in 11 innings 7-6. Leo Cardenas' three-run homer powered Cincinnati's

5-3 victory over Kansas City. The Chicago White Sox shaded Boston 4-3 and Cleveland battled to a 1-1 tie with the Mexico City Tigers in a game halted after five innings by rain.

Jerry Kindall, playing at first base, bobbled Walt Bond's bounce, permitting Sonny Jackson to score Houston's winning run against Minnesota in the 11th inning.

Don Mincher had three hits including a home run for the Twins.

Cardenas' homer broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth inning and lifted the Reds past Kansas City. The shot came off reliever Jack Aker who had just taken over for Roland Sheldon.

Three Cincinnati pitchers — Sammy Ellis, Jim O'Toole and Dom Zanni — limited the A's to three hits.

The White Sox scored the winning run against Boston on a fourth inning double steal with Tom McCraw swiping home. Rookie Bill Voss, who stole two bases, broke for second and McCraw for home with two out in the fourth and the maneuver worked.

Alpena Advances On Free Throws After Game Ends

By The Associated Press

A victory gained after the game was over, a double overtime thriller and three head-to-head matches between rated teams featured the third night of regional play in the Michigan high school basketball tourney Thursday.

Alpena nipped Flint Ainsworth, 77-75, on a pair of free throws after the game by Rod Mariatt in the only Class A game played.

Alpena had wiped out a 17-point Ainsworth lead in the final six minutes and Mariatt, who finished with 38 points, was charged by a Flint player at the final buzzer.

Bob Meske's layup with five seconds remaining had tied the score at 75-all. Alpena never led until Mariatt's first free throw after the game went through the hoop.

Holt remained in contention in Class B with a 78-70 victory over Northville in two overtimes.

Jim Zayti's basket with five seconds remaining gave Northville a chance as the regular game ended in a 62-62 tie. Northville had three baskets and Holt six free throws in the first overtime. Rick VanHouten of Holt tied the score at 68-all with 25 seconds to go but Northville missed a last-second shot.

Holt, paced by Pat Brown's 29 points — four of them in the final overtime, took command after that.

Detroit Visitation (No. 10) ousted Grosse Pointe St. Paul (No. 9), a finalist last year, 70-55, in a Class C headliner. Godfrey Dillars scored 24 for Visitation, while Bill Bigham had 27 for St. Paul.

In Class D, where 12 games were played, defending titlist Covert (No. 1) withstood the challenge of North Adams (No. 4) and won, 62-57, with Jim Sarano netting 19 points and DeTour (No. 7) rallied to nip Pellston (No. 8), 64-63, with Mick Adams getting 19.

Grand Rapids South Christian (No. 1) crushed Muskegon Reeths-Puffer, 86-53; South Haven (No. 2) toyed with Comstock, 92-45, with Bill Plochko pumping in 20 points, and Allegan (No. 6) bested Coldwater, 65-57, with Tink Wilcox contributing 22 points, in other Class B games involving rated teams.

Detroit St. Hedwig No. 2 got 24 points from Rick Opalinski in downing St. Martin, 79-57. Mike Hackett's 31 points powered Mount Pleasant Sacred Heart (No. 4) to a 74-50 verdict over Evart, and Rob White pushed in 35 points as Middleville (No. 6) trimmed Portne Creek St. Philip, 80-65, in Class C.

Teams, County Joined In Suit, Braves Charge

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A Milwaukee civic group seeking to obtain an expansion franchise in the National League was pictured Thursday as one of the instigators of the antitrust action against baseball.

Attorneys defending the game against monopoly charges in the move of the Braves from Milwaukee to Atlanta, pointed an accusing finger at Teams Inc., and the Milwaukee Brewers Inc., whose leadership is much the same.

Counsel sought to bring out, through cross-examination of a key state witness, that baseball-minded civic leaders, with the tacit approval of Milwaukee County officials, prodded the state into starting the suit now being tried before Circuit Judge Elmer W. Roler.

Their aim, the defense claims, was to "harass baseball into submission," thereby keeping the Braves in Milwaukee or winning an expansion franchise for Milwaukee Brewers Inc.

Teams Inc. is a group of civic leaders and business men who are seeking to bring a new team to Milwaukee.

Summers Named Northern MVP

MARQUETTE (AP)—Gene Summers, Northern Michigan's All-NAIA center and all-time scoring leader, has been named the basketball team's most valuable player and honorary captain for the 1965-66 season.

Summers was NMU's scoring leader the last two seasons. He is a junior college transfer.

In 47 games, Summers set a career record of 1,328 points, averaging 28.2 points a game.

A two-time small college All-America selection, Summers led Northern to a 16-6 record this season.

But the devastating wind cones can range all over the map, striking unexpectedly almost anywhere in the country. The cost in death and property damage is high. At 94, Seeks To Find Job

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—John T. Williams of Grand Rapids is looking for a job, either full or parttime, and he isn't fussy about what type. So the Michigan Employment Security Commission thinks the chances of this 6-foot-1, 185-pounder are pretty good—even if he did celebrate his 94th birthday last St. Valentine's Day. Williams, a widower and a former Lake County deputy sheriff, filed a job application this week, after President Johnson asked senior citizens to return to work where there are labor shortages and they have needed skills. February statistics showed Grand Rapids' unemployment about two per cent. Besides having been a sheriff's deputy from 1951 to 1954, Williams also has been a hotel doorman, a kitchen helper and a general store handyman. Frank Christensen, employment commission manager here, said Williams will be sent out for placement, and reported that only recently he had obtained employment for a 92-year-old wood carver looking for parttime employment. Williams boasts his weight has remained at 185 pounds "the last 70 years." He attributes his longevity to "clean living and plenty of exercise."

Wins $100,000 Damages In Suit

DETROIT (AP)—A Pontiac man was awarded $100,000 damages Thursday in a lawsuit in which he alleged he suffered complicated injuries when struck on the head by a bucket of cement. Moses Patrick, 43, had filed the suit in Wayne County Circuit Court against Pulte-Strang Inc. and Guy Smith, a crane operator from Port Huron. The jury also awarded Patrick's wife $3,000. Patrick was injured in 1959 while working for a subcontractor on a school construction project in Southfield. He claimed the bucket of cement, being lowered by a crane, struck him in the head, causing cerebral concussion, headaches, dizzy spells and impairment of his vision and hearing.

Petition Big Board To Move

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 100 members of the New York Stock Exchange have signed a petition, supporting the big board's consideration of a move from New York City.

An exchange spokesman said the petition has received more than the required signatures needed to call a membership meeting.

The special meeting would ask for a vote urging the board of governors of the exchange to shelve plans for a new building in the New York City financial district and consider moving to another state.

Keith Funston, president, has said the exchange will have to consider such a move because of Mayor John Lindsay's proposal to raise stock transfer taxes.

Nostalgic Land Is A Vacant Lot

By JOHN BARBOUR

NEW YORK (AP) — "That is the land of lost content," wrote the poet Housman. "I see it shining plain, the happy highways where I went, and cannot come again."

Somewhere in that nostalgic landscape, for many Americans, seems to be a vacant lot. That was brought out when I wrote a story a little while ago about "The Vacant Lot that Used to Be" and found that scores of readers wanted to share their memories.

Rose M. Modisette of Pasadena, Calif., wrote: "Even a little girl in Ohio, about 1903, felt the same way. There was a mound that surely the Indians had made, and a baseball diamond made only by running feet. And to play first base for the Lincoln Avenuers — after proving you could keep up with the boys — was grand. 'Up to the corner' still has a good sound."

Warren E. LaPlante of Chico, Calif., recalled: "I was a boy born in Los Angeles in 1907. Where the Great Coliseum now stands was our vacant lot. We carried water in a Karo syrup bucket and poured it in a little ground squirrel hole till he came out, and we would grab it, and get bit many times before we got him in a shoe box. And we sold them for 5 cents apiece."

"Then came World War I. The Army had, it seemed to me, a million tents (in the vacant lot) that the men lived in until they went overseas. All of us kids were spoiled by the men — we were their kids — the ones they left at home."

Open Shipping At Alpena Sunday

ALPENA (AP) — The Great Lakes freighter S. T. Crapo is scheduled to arrive Sunday in this upper Lake Huron Port to open the 1966 navigation season at Alpena. It will take on a load of cement at the Huron Portland Cement Co. plant. The Crapo also opened the 1965 season here.

The smaller the creature the more easily it travels by air. Wingless bacteria float in the air for days.

Betty Joyce of Miami, Fla., wrote of a vacant lot in a suburb of Boston: "It had trees and trash and those ubiquitous blue flowers that thrive in vacant lots, and weeds and broken glass. But I only saw the flowers and the trees, heard the songs of birds, it was my retreat, my Southern Pacific isle."

And finally, Mrs. William Linker of Yakima, Wash., wrote of what used to be a vacant lot out back of her home: "It's a garden and strawberry patch now, and the little grandson has grown taller and gone away. We had a ditch dug for a drain out back. The neighbor children and grandchildren all played army out there in the mud, dust, dirt, but they had fun."

"Now I never look out my back door but what that comes to mind. Those little boys who will soon be in some real Army, in mud and water. It's sad. But I know they won't ever forget 'Grandpa's back lot,' that is still there."

"What's a few berry plants, if they could just come back."

Hospital Settles For Damage Suit

PONTIAC (AP) — Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital has settled for $30,000 damages growing out of the death of a 12-year-old Ferndale boy there in November.

Michael Ketchum and two others died of an alleged improper mixture of anesthetics at the hospital.

Settlement was reached Thursday between the hospital and William E. Ketchum, the boy's father, and approved by Circuit Judge William J. Beer, who termed it "fair and proper."

Kimberly Ann Brunel, 8, of Bloomfield Township, and Mrs. Lurea Covington, a Pontiac mother, also died after undergoing surgery and receiving anesthetics from the same batch as young Ketchum.

Gerald M. Covington of Pontiac has filed suit for $1.25 million in connection with his wife's death, and Mrs. Loretta Brunel has sued for $500,000 in the death of her daughter.

Attorneys for the hospital have moved for a change of venue in both suits. A hearing on this is scheduled April 1.

M Coeds To Visit Viet Nam Village

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Two Michigan State University girls have left on a military plane, bound for Viet Nam and a visit to a village 60 miles from Saigon.

Judith Rice of Greenville, Mich., and Karen Radom of Birmingham, Mich., boarded a military plane at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base here to start their journey to Viet Nam.

They are to attend a dedication of a new market place in the village of Long Yen, which a group at Michigan State has "adopted." The girls are co-chairmen of the University People to People Association which has donated nearly $1,000 in aid to the village.

Negro Soldier Earns Praise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officials are praising the Negro as a gallant, hard-fighting soldier. New figures show that proportionately more Negroes have died in Viet Nam than military personnel of other races.

One spokesman said the Negro "has shown himself at least as worthy a fighter as the next man."

The Defense Department Wednesday provided figures from what it called a "one-time survey" which showed Negroes suffering a higher number of deaths, proportionately shown in the Southeast Asian conflict.

The survey showed that Negroes make up 14.8 per cent of the Army force in Viet Nam, but have suffered 18.3 per cent of the deaths since January 1961.

By the same token, Negroes comprise 8.9 per cent of the Marine total in Viet Nam but have suffered 11.3 per cent of the casualties.

When only enlisted men are counted, the Army's Negro deaths jump to 22.1 per cent of the total casualties, and the Marines' Negro deaths are upped to 12 per cent.

Pentagon officials say they do not consider the number of Negro fatalities high. If the figures show anything, one spokesman asserted, "it is the valor of the Negro in combat."

Officials emphasized that Negroes are not singled out for hazardous missions in battle areas. Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, recently told inquiring Southern senators the same thing during hearings on additional funds for the Viet Nam war.

Pentagon officials say many Negro deaths occur in forward airborne units where the number of Negro volunteers is high.

CLAIM DENIED — Kwame Nkrumah, who flew home from his London exile after claiming responsibility for planning the coup which overthrew Ghana's President, was arrested upon arrival in Accra, Ghana's new military regime said he was an enemy of the country and had nothing to do with Nkrumah's overthrow.

School Board Seeks New Home

Charles Morton of Detroit have been named to a State Board of Education committee to search for a new building to house all the board's offices together in one location. ## Water For 200 Brazilian Cities

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil will spend $30 million this year to provide water for 200 inland cities. It also plans to complete water supply construction in Salvador, the capital of Bahia State.

Half of the money $15 million was granted as a long-term loan by the Interamerican Development Bank and the other half will come from government resources and income from user fees after completion of the first part of the works.

"The safest way to combat the sickness that destroys our interior population is to provide basic sanitation," said Health Minister Raimundo de Brito.

Cities in which water supply system construction is already under way or whose plans have been approved, will have priority under the new program.
